When comparing my webpage on Google Chrome vs. Microsoft Edge, there are very minimal differences. The shades of color like the red and the white background seem to look a little brighter on Google Chrome. Most of the font and spacing look the same. The only difference in font that I noticed is the H1: Wok Asian Cuisine. The look of the fonts slightly vary. Google Chrome's H1 font spreads out more horizontally and looks a bit bigger while Microsoft Edge's looks more bunched together. Overall, the webpages are practically identical.
